

OLD SHACKS ARE TORN DOWN AT CONEY ISLAND

Bird Coler's Men Remove the Shanties on Surf Avenue.

POLICE RESERVES OUT.

Some of the Stand Keepers
Resisted, but Were Soon Subdued.

Borough President Bird S. Coler, of Brooklyn, today made good his threat to clear Surf Avenue, Coney Island, of all encumbering and enroached stands and throw the sidewalk wider open to the pedestrians. When Coler stated on Thursday that his men would descend on encroachers today they gave him what he technically knew as "the laugh."

In the fog and darkness of to-day, when the "hot dog" and souvenir vendors were foraging their losses for the day, Deputy Superintendent of Highways Durbin Van Vleet, accompanied by Supt. Cassidy, of the Bureau of Encumbrances, with 100 men and fifteen trucks descended on the unprotected island and began going down the line of Surf Avenue.

The Attack Begins.

A "red-hot" stand, sitting on board a truck first, the linked sweetness long drawn out scattering around on the muddy pavement and street. A stand containing postal cards next west by the board, and across from the board, the owners who were gathering for a charge on the borough employees.

One man resisted and they gathered to his support. Then Supt. Van Vleet sent to the Coney Island station and the reserves turned out, accompanied by five of Brooklyn's Rough Riders, who steered their horses into the crowds and broke up the insurrection.

The One Execution.

The Borough President's contention was that most of the stands were twenty feet over the street line and all encroaching stands and obstructions were removed.

Except the Brooklyn Rapid Transit's illuminated signs, of which there are many stuck up along Surf Avenue. For some reason the fierce opponent of corporations who preside over Rubbery plant have spared the sign when it came to the transit corporation. Supt. Cassidy said that the B. R. T. had been given an extension of grace until Thursday when the company would have had the signs removed themselves.

The quality of mercy not having descended to the frankfurter and postcard stands, they were carted off to the Corporation Yard at the foot of Ganston street, Brooklyn. The value of the goods and concessions lost amounts to $200,000. Every stand owner had paid from $50 to $200 in advance for the privilege of conducting the stand in front of a place and the raid means a dead loss of the money as well as the value of the stock.

Many court orders are expected to follow the clearing, as the owners threatened to go to law.

ROSEBRINO A WISE PATRIOTIC MARE

She Knows the Kind of Rosette to Wear and the Date to Wear It.

Policeman Johnny Miller, who jumps over bookies of houses when he is in humor, laid his bicycle against a lamp post Saturday afternoon to give his legs a rest. Suddenly tearing down the avenue came a bunch of fast-stepping horses, under road wagons.

"Comin' back from the parade of the Road Drivers' Association," mused Johnny. "Those fellows will tear gobs out of the avenue if I don't get on the job," and he mounted his wheel.

"Out it out!" he yelled, which is police talk for "go slow." The drivers reined up and went by at a reasonable gait.

One trim-looking speeder refused to answer the rein. She plunged and scowled and lallygagged and shook her shaggy head viciously.

"What's the matter with her?" asked Johnny Miller.

"Dandin' said the driver, "Big Mike" Cosgrove, "maybe she's proud because she took a prize at the parade, but I never saw her act like this before. Glory be, but watch her shake that head! Whoa, there, Rosebrino! What's the matter with you, anyway, you pie-faced mule?"

But Rosebrino would not "whoa!"

Along came John McCarthy, the sage of Central Park. There was a gleam in his eye that meant a bookful of things.

"Alay, Mike," he said, "I know what's the trouble with the mare. How did you ever expect an Irish-bred mare from Ballinacree to travel with this?" and McCarthy plucked from the headstall of Rosebrino the orange rosette and ribbon which the little mare had won in competition after the parade. "Now, Mike, that's the color isn't due until the 11th of July, and that it don't belong on anything of your or yours. He on your way?"

And Rosebrino beat it to Eighty-fourth street at a 210 clip. She was happy.

HUGHES NAMES HIS STATE MILITIA PROBERS.

ALBANY, May 6.—Gov. Hughes today announced the appointments of the three members of the special commission which is to investigate the National Guard and review the military code of the State. They are William Cary Sanger, of Sangerfield, N. Y., formerly Assistant Secretary of War; Francis G. Langdon, of Staatsburg, ex-Ambassador and former Major in the National Guard; and John J. Secretary of the American Legion at Vienna, and Col. Walter S. Shoupier, United States Army.

Senator Raines, as President pro tem of the Senate, and Speaker Wadsworth, are each to appoint three members of the commission.

MOTHER SEEKS MISSING BOY.

SHOT BY NEGRO PREACHER.

WICHITA, Kan., May 6.—Rev. Andrew Burbridge, a negro, yesterday broke into the house of his divorced wife and shot her six times, inflicting wounds that will cause death. He was found three miles from the house with a self-inflicted bullet wound in the side. He will recover.

HENRY WERNER, YOUR MOTHER WANTS YOU.

Has Shed Many Tears Since You
Left and Is Near a Breakdown.

Fifteen-year-old Henry Werner, who left his home at No. 125 Sands street, Brooklyn, April 12, can save his mother many tears and ultimate breakdown if he will let her know where he is. Mrs. Werner has asked The Evening World to send him this message:

Henry speaks and writes English and German fluently and is probably holding down a job somewhere. Any one knowing his whereabouts will confer the greatest favor that could be bestowed by communicating with Mrs. Werner at the above address.

BEAT UP MAN FOR ONE DOLLAR "ROLL."

Barber "Fooled" Three Thieves in Saloon, and Needs a Surgeon.

Anton Dohmer, barber, of No. 99 Bowery, went into a saloon last night and in paying for a beer ostentatiously drew out a "roll" consisting of a dollar bill wrapped around a piece of newspaper.

William Donovan, George Parks and James O'Neil, hungry, watched Dohmer stuff the supposed roll into his pocket and followed and beat him over the head until he was unconscious. Then they fled with their booty into the arms of two policemen. Dohmer was attended by an ambulance surgeon and taken to his home.

Instantly you hear the word linoleum mentioned you think of Cook's. Ask your neighbor about linoleum: She talks Cook's. Cook's Linoleum—a household word of the nation. But to be absolutely sure you are getting this widely popular floor-covering, look for this name stamped on the back—

Cook's Linoleum

Cook's Linoleum is molded in one piece. Compare this improved method of manufacture with the jointed linoleum—the sort that's pieced together like tile-work. Just as the tile units work loose and chip, so do the segments of jointed linoleum. Get Cook's Molded Inlaid and you've a linoleum that will last for years.

Cook's Printed Linoleum is different from other linoleums. It is more pliable and less brittle. That's why it sets well on the floor and won't crack. It is easier to lay, too. It is tougher, however, and long-lasting.

Cook's Linoleum comes in special-pattern effects adapted for reception halls and libraries, as well as bathrooms and nurseries.

Every dealer should have Cook's Linoleum. If your dealer hasn't, write to
